Department of Economics Students' Enriching Visit to the 43rd Agartala Book Fair

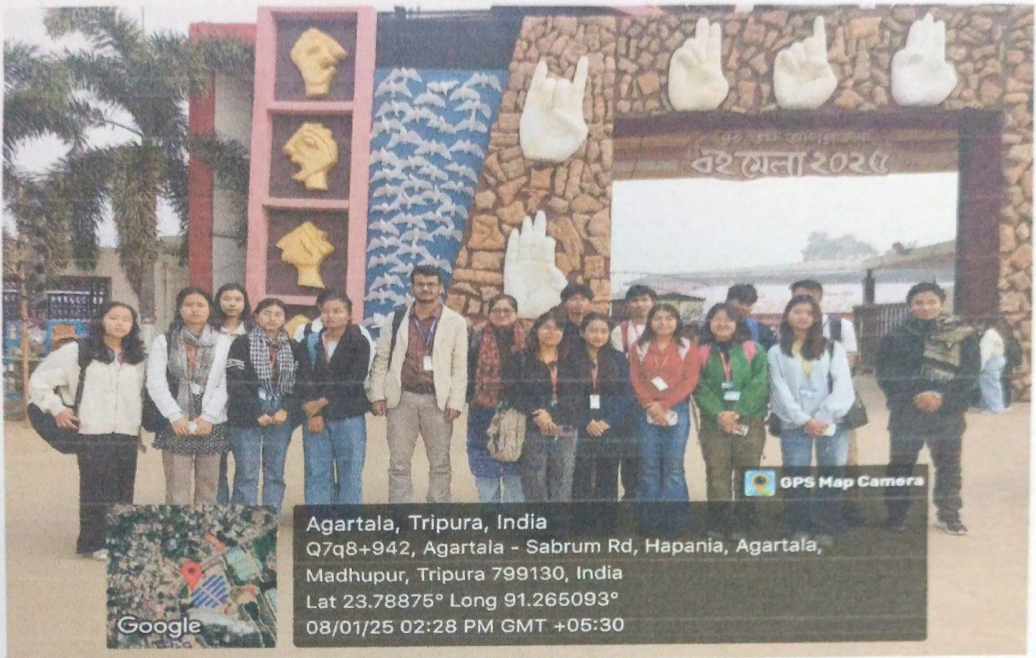

On Wednesday, January 8, 2025, students from the Department of Economics at Holy Cross College, Agartala, visited the 43rd Agartala Book Fair at the Hapania International Fair Ground. The fair, inaugurated on January 2, 2025, by Chief Minister Dr. Manik Saha, emphasized the importance of reading and the tradition of gifting books.

During their visit, the students explored various stalls featuring a diverse range of books, including economic literature, providing them with valuable resources to supplement their academic studies. This visit aligned with the department's commitment to providing students with diverse learning experiences beyond the classroom. The fair also hosted cultural programs and discussions, offering the students exposure to different perspectives and ideas.

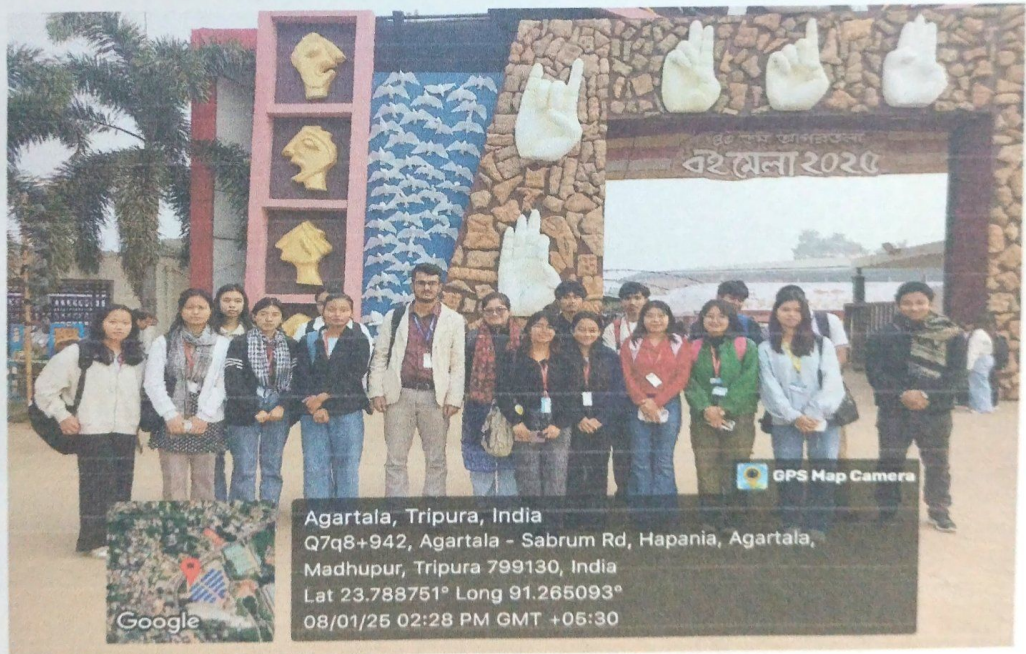

Participation in events like the Agartala Book Fair enhances students' academic journey by exposing them to a wide range of economic literature and facilitating engagement with contemporary economic discussions. Such initiatives reflect the department's dedication to holistic education and the intellectual growth of its students. The 43rd Agartala Book Fair concluded on January 14, 2025, recording sales of ₹1.50 crore, reflecting the community's enthusiasm for literature.
